[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The Great Council of the Order of Red Men of the United States met at the Ebbitt House in this city today. There are about one hundred and fifty in attendance, and probably five hundred other members of the order are in the city as visitors.

A formal address of welcome was delivered by F. C. Barnkessell, Great Sachem, of Washington, and the response was made by Great Incohonee, George E. Green of Binghamton, N. Y. The Great Incohonee also delivered his annual "Long talk."

The report made by him showed the receipts of the order for the past year to have been $1,427,405. The disbursements were $558,695, of which $454,001 were for relief and the remainder for funerals.

THROUGH TRUNK LINE.

Associated Consolidation of Chicago and Alton and Illinois Central.

I. A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Extensive circulation has been given to the rumor that the Chicago and Alton Railroad, the Illinois Central Railroad and the Union Pacific had entered into a combination and would form a through trunk line from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. Rumors of such consolidations have been ripe for the last eighteen months, the principal one being a combination between the two Vanderbilt lines, the Chicago and Northwestern and the Union Pacific.

Stuyvesant Fish, president of the Illinois Central, when asked about the new rumor, said: "It is a matter of principle with me, and I have made it a rule never either to affirm or deny any rumors about the Illinois Central."

not sufficient. The officers in charge admit the genuineness of some of the complaints, but they declare that the discharged soldiers crowded the ship of their own accord, although they had an option of remaining in Manila until the next troopship should sail.

The soldiers' condition will affect the health of the returning soldiers. There are 1200 of them on board, being carried back to San Francisco. The soldiers on the Tartar are fracturing with the British regulars on duty here, and are to remain at the various messes of the garrison. At these gatherings the Anglo-American alliance is always enthusiastically toasted. The Tartar will sail Tuesday.

TIRED OF FIGHTING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—A dispatch to the World from Hongkong says, among other things:

"An association of natives, styling themselves 'The Filipino Liberation Society,' has applied to permission to organize a militia with Gen. Otis as President. The general has declined to pledge himself in the matter, but thought it might be possible to forward the operations of the association."

"According to private letters received yesterday, several of the rebel colonels are now in Aguilano's brigadiers intend to allow themselves to be captured when the United States troops attack Tarlac, because they are tired of fighting."

"The World correspondent has the name of these discontented Filipino officers, but to publish them would be to betray them to the vengeance of Aguilano."

A SOLDIER'S DUTY.

[Gen. Miles Talks of Sandy Hook Tests and Philippines.]

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Journal's Washington special says Maj. Charles M. Rockefellers mysterious disappearance, April 28, is fully described in reports forwarded by Gen. Otis. The story is told in statements made to Capt. Palmer of the Ninth United States Infantry by Corporals William E. Lyman, John Ross and Privates Thomas F. Keenan and James Barrett, who were last to see Maj. Rockefellers.

They were on the picket line near Caloocan. Maj. Rockefellers visited them between 9 and 10 p.m. After Rockefellers left, Barrett and Keenan thought they heard him calling "picket" for about ten minutes. They could not go to him, because they thought other pickets were nearer. Ross heard someone calling "picket," and found it was Rockefellers. The officer said something about having come in contact with a wire fence and being cut. Ross offered to escort him to the next outpost, but he declined to accept.

After Rockefellers left Ross he began calling "picket" again, and Ross told him that the next outpost was to the right of the course he was pursuing. After that Rockefellers called for pickets a few more times, and then all was still. Rescue parties went out at midnight and next day and found no trace of him except a piece of paper with Rockefellers name on it, a mile and a half from the outpost.

In passing upon the report, Gen. Otis says he cannot clear the mystery. Rockefellers had marched five miles in the broiling sun with his regiment that day, and his mind may have been affected to such an extent that he wandered into the lines of the Filipinos. Another theory is that he was captured by a detachment of Filipinos on a scouting tour.

AMMUNITION WANTED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—Gov. Andrew E. Lee of South Dakota arrived here today to welcome the South Dakota volunteers who returned here on the transport Sheridan. It was Gov. Lee's intention to get here in time to meet the returning volunteers, but owing to the conflicting reports of the date of her expected arrival, he did not reach here in time. Gov. Lind of Minnesota also missed connections by several days.

The details of these results will be carefully embodied into the official report to be submitted to the War Department.

In response to a renewed inquiry whether there was any prospect of his going to Manila to assume command of the United States forces there, Gen. Miles said: "I cannot tell. There are no new developments in the matter, so far as I know. Certainly such a measure would be set aside as responsible if he would be sent to the Far East." Asked if he would not like to go out there and undertake the solution of our difficulties with Spain, he replied: "It is a soldier's duty to go where he is sent and to do the very best he can when he goes there. treasured in Newport, and on his departure in autumn of each year, he left a considerable fund for distribution among the poor during the winter.

One of his children, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, occupy cottages here. Vanderbilt purchased "The Breakers" from Pierre Lorillard in 1884 and occupied the villa until the fall of 1893, when it was destroyed by fire. The following year he began the construction of the new villa, "The Breakers," which is one of the most palatial and extensive estates in Newport. Its cost alone being estimated at $1,000,000.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

Son of a Farmer. He Left an Enormous Fortune.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Cornelius Vanderbilt was born on Staten Island November 21, 1843. William H. Vanderbilt's father was at that time a farmer, and Cornelius, at the age of 16, left school and secured a place as messenger in the Shoe and Leather Bank. His grandfather, the Commodore, learning of this, sent for him and asked why he had not applied to him for a place.

"Because I did not want to ask you for anything," was the reply.

This pleased the Commodore, and it is said that he made a codicil to his will, a few days later, leaving $1,000,000 to his grandson.

Cornelius left the Shoe and Leather Bank to go into the employ of Kissam Bros., bankers, but his grandfather asked him to enter the railroad service. A young man was making $300 a month, and declined to leave his place unless he got more money. He was given $65, and accepted it. He was then about 21 years old. The first place he was given was that of assistant treasurer of the New York and Harlem Railroad. His rise was rapid, and he succeeded his father as head of the Vanderbilt system.

Vanderbilt's active career was practically over when he suffered a paralytic stroke in July, 1896. Despite his enormous business interests, he found time to devote to church and Sunday-school work, which he held in life. He gave freely to the Christian branch of the Young Men's Christian Association and to the work of St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church in this city.

Vanderbilt's great business career made him nearly a millionaire. He went to Europe last spring, and came home June 24, accompanied by Mrs. Vanderbilt and his daughter, Gladys. They went to New York, San diego, and Vanderbilt improved constantly in his health. August 5 he gave a house party at his home. The Breakers. The last social affair in the Breakers was upon the departure of Alfred Vanderbilt for a round-the-world trip. He left for Seattle July 26, accompanied by William Proudfit Burden, Ernest Iselin and Douglas H. Cochran.

When Vanderbilt was 23 years old he married Alice Gwynne, the daughter of Cincinnati lawyer. His first-born son, William H. died in 1892, while he was a student in Yale University. Vanderbilt leaves five children. Cornelius Jr., Gertrude, Alfred, Reginald and Gladys. Cornelius Jr. married Gladys in 1895. The banker, about two years ago, and later Gertrude became the wife of Harry Payne Whitney, son of former Secretary of the Navy William C. Whitney. William K. Frederick W., and George are surviving brothers of Cornelius Vanderbilt.

After his first stroke of paralysis, Vanderbilt leased a residence in Washington, D. C., and upon the advice of his physicians, lived there very quietly for three months. His sojourn in the capital was of extreme benefit to his health, and he returned to his residence in this city in April, 1897. He appeared to many of his friends to be nearly as strong and as well as he had ever been. Plans were made for a trip to Europe in the following month. In the months following his departure his friends were delighted by letters which described his health as steadily growing firmer, and stating that his physicians had consented to his returning home in the autumn, but with the proviso that he must for some indefinite time content himself with a more general supervision of the railway systems and relish entirely the detail work which he had previously taken upon himself.

Either inclination or change of opinion on the part of his physicians, or some uncelebrated physician scientist, Dr. Charcot, who was on a protracted stay abroad. He remained in Paris most of the time until December, when he went to Marstrand, and there went aboard his yacht for a leisurely winter cruise across the Mediterranean to Africa and other North African ports, afterward proceeding up the Nile. On the journey he was accompanied by Dr. Charcot and he was not then expected to return to the United States until the spring.

Chauncey M. Depew, speaking of Mr. Vanderbilt, said: "Mr. Vanderbilt and I were the most intimate friends. We were on intimate terms for thirty years. He was a most bright-minded man, full of questions. He felt the great responsibility of his wealth, and believed he owed obligations to the world. He believed he should be an active citizen in all matters, and gave much attention to public affairs. About one-fourth of his time was devoted to religious and charitable work."

The disposition of Vanderbilt's estate is a matter of some doubt. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., was alienated from his family by his marriage, two years ago, with Miss Grace Wilson, daughter of R. T. Wilson, the banker of this city, and it is thought probable that his son will be the principal heir. The opposition to young Vanderbilt's marriage was based upon his youth, and the fact that Miss Wilson was eight or ten years older than he.

At the time of his death, Vanderbilt was president of the Canada Southern Railroad; vice-president and director of the Beach Creek Railroad; president of the Chicago and Bay City Railroad; director of the Chicago, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad; director of the Detroit and Chicago Railroad; director of the Dunkirk, Allegan Valley and Pittsburgh Railroad; director of the Hudson River Bridge Company; president of the Great Northern Indiana Railroad; president of the Leamington and St. Clair Railroad; president of the New York and Hudson Railroad; president of the Niagara Falls Electric Company; president of the Spuyten Duyvil and Port Morris Railroad; director of the Wagner Palace Car Company; director of the West Shore Railroad; director after Palmer had left the ring, but had great difficulty in wending his way through the crowd, as everybody seemed anxious to grasp the winner's hand.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Terry McGovern of Brooklyn whipped Pedlar Palmer of London thoroughly in less than one round in the arena of the Westchester Club near Tuckahoe, N. Y., this afternoon. With the victory went the title of bantam champion of the world, although both contestants were actually in the featherweight class.

The Englishman, although forcing the pace at the outset, was really never in it, and McGovern simply battered his opponent into total insensibility. The Brooklyn lad's arms worked like piston-rods, and the punishment which

The opposition to young Vanderbilt's marriage was based upon his youth, and the fact that Miss Wilson was eight or ten years older than he.

The Englishman, although forcing the pace at the outset, was really never in it, and McGovern simply battered his opponent into total insensibility. The Brooklyn lad's arms worked like piston-rods, and the punishment which he meted out to Palmer was swift and terrible.

The battle did not last quite one round, the actual time of fighting being exactly 2m. 22 s., at the end of which time Palmer was lying helpless, half-conscious, on the floor of the ring. Through an unlooked-for accident on the official timer's part, the pair were separated by the gong when they had been fighting one minute. Each went to his corner, but the gong was recited in less than twelve seconds, and the boys resumed hostilities in the center of the ring immediately at the command of the referee, George Slier. The ringing of the gong was a mere addition, as it was understood, and the Englishman's handlers make no complaint on this score.

From the outset McGovern seemed to have his man well in hand, but his most savage admirer never imagined that Terry would be in such short order. It was a case of a clever boxer, and the fight won. McGovern was a veritable fighting machine, and he went at his work with blinding determination, and lightning rapidity. His arms were never at rest for a moment, and he beat down Palmer's guard with his sledge-hammer blows.

The pure purse, which the boys had agreed to split, was $10,000, of which 75 per cent. went to the winner, and the remainder to the loser. In addition to this both pugilists are guaranteed an interest in the privileges accruing from the kinetoscope pictures of the bout.

There were hundreds of sporting men from all over the United States, and a large number of the race-track contingent was in evidence.

When the boys entered the ring a fair estimate of the audience would place the number at 10,000. McGovern was a strong favorite in the betting, several large wagers being made at odds of 100 to 80, and later on these odds were increased to 100 to 70, at which price all the British money in sight was picked up. McGovern and Pedlar Palmer were the commissioners chosen for them, and they won about $8000 in the aggregate.

Each of the fighters weighed in at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, and both scaled less than the limit of 116 pounds. When the announcement of the postponement was made, it was understood that they would weigh again this morning in accordance with the articles of agreement, which stipulated that the lads should weigh in at 116 pounds, ten hours previous to their meeting in the ring. This was not done, however, as Palmer was unable to do any road work, owing to the inclement weather, and by mutual consent the weighing-in was waived at the request of Palmer's manager, F. A. Bettinson of England.

The lads practically met at catch-weights.

From noon the special trains which were running from the Grand Central depot were uncomfortably crowded, and by 2 o'clock the vast enclosure was more than half filled. McGovern was a decided favorite in the betting, odds of 100 to 80 being freely laid on the American.

Boxers from Tom Sharkey to George Dixon were to be seen in the boxes and grandstands. "Kid McCoy" was among the stars, and he looked in splendid condition. The officials who had charge of the contests were as follows: Referee, George Slier; official timer, John Pollock; announcer, Peter Prunty; time-keepers for McGovern, Sam Austin; for Palmer, F. A. Black; steward for McGovern, Sam Harris; William Morris; Charlie Mayhew, Tim Kearns and Joe Fairburn; for Palmer, Sam Blakelock; Jim McCall and Jeff Thorpe, all of England.

Palmer led off with his left lightly on the head. Seemingly confident of success, he forced matters again, leading his left again with force, but McGovern stepped back quickly, and Palmer fell to his knee. When he arose they ran to work at the ropes. Terry landing his right twice on the jaw, and then bringing it down to the stomach, at the same time keeping his head inside of Palmer's swings. Palmer landed a right left on Terry's mouth, but the Brooklyn lad only shook his head, and both hands working on head and body.

When they had been fighting just one minute, Time-keeper Pollock accidentally rang the gong at a moment when McGovern was evidently getting the better of his opponent. The principals beat at the ropes, some of the girls and spectators ran to their corners, while the seconds, as well as the referee, looked at the time-keeper in amazement. The referee, seeing that a mistake had been made through pure accident, called the boy back again and they resume the contest. Palmer's right again hit the jaw, and then bringing it down to the stomach, at the same time keeping his head inside of Palmer's swings. Palmer landed a right left on Terry's mouth, but the Brooklyn lad only shook his head, and both hands working on head and body.

Palmer got up within four seconds. He was groggy, and McGovern forced him to the ropes. Palmer, though half-groggy, ducked beautifully. McGovern was all over him without pausing for an instant, and kept working both hands to the body and neck. Palmer again hit the jaw, and then brought it down to the stomach, at the same time keeping his head inside of Palmer's swings. Palmer got up within four seconds. He was groggy, and McGovern forced him to the ropes. Palmer, though half-groggy, ducked beautifully. McGovern was all over him without pausing for an instant, and kept working both hands to the body and neck. Palmer again hit the jaw, and then brought it down to the stomach, at the same time keeping his head inside of Palmer's swings. Palmer landed a right left on Terry's mouth, but the Brooklyn lad only shook his head, and both hands working on head and body.

Armed cowboys are still arriving here, and a number left late this evening for Naco.*The funeral of Clayton, the cowboy who was shot, took place this afternoon, and over fifty of the cowboys attended it. New developments in regard to his killing go to show that he was killed on this side of the line, and that the Mexican government will be called to account for his death. R. A. Pearson of the United States Department of Agriculture, dairy division, delivered an address in which he stated that California was in a position, geographically, to supply the Orient with dairy products, and that there was a State that had greater opportunities to build up a trade with the Orient in these products, superior to California.*He advised the butter-makers of the State to manufacture a hard butter and to send it to the Orient, and assumed the responsibility of the exportation of the Department of Agriculture. During his remarks he read an inspiring letter from Washington to California dairymen. The meeting was enthusiastic and promising.*At the conclusion of the morning session, a board of directors was elected, consisting of M. P. Hansen; Alton; William Niles, Los Angeles; C. H. The greater part of the morning was occupied with discussions upon two resolutions, the first protesting in very strong terms against the verdict in the Dreyfus court-martial. This resolution written by Dr. J. A. B. Wilson of San Francisco, and signed by some of the leading members of the conference, was not adopted, but a substitute was passed, expressing conviction of Dreyfus's innocence, and extending the sympathy of this body to him and his family.*The second important matter was a heated discussion, precipitated by the address of Dr. E. B. Chapman before the conference yesterday, and the report of the conference regarding the temperature of McKinley's trial. The conference recommended that the President should not exercise his authority as Commander-in-Chief of the army to abolish the army canteen. A warm defense of the President was presented by Dr. F. D. Edward, who placed the blame on Atty.-Gen. Griggs. A resolution presented by Dr. Carroll of Sacramento struck out all reference to President McKinley was lost. That portion relating to the President as amended now stands as follows:*HONOLULU ADVICES.Trouble Between White and Black Soldiers on City of Puebla.[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]CITY COUNCIL WILL ACCEPT THE OFFER of Andrew Carnegie.[A. EX-SENATOR BLAIR SAYS THEY WILL BE AT CHICAGO.

THE VIRGINIAN HAS GIVEN THOUGHT TO THE SUBJECT OF COMBINATIONS OF CAPITAL AND FINDS TWO BILLIONS IN PAPER AND SIX IN WATER.

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Ex-United States Senator Henry W. Blair of Virginia, who is on his way to Chicago to attend the trust conference, said last night:

"All sorts and conditions of theorists will be there. The spell-binder, who thinks the trusts are driving this country to the bow-wows, and the corporatist, who can see no harm in them, will be there to give their views. I have studied this subject only a short time, I learn that there are 547 trusts up to date, with a capitalization of $8,000,000. Two billions of this eight just about represents the bonds. The other six billions are water. Much of the latter is held by people who will lose on it one of these days."

"I read ex-Senator Washburn's interview in the Tribune with a good deal of interest. There is a good deal of sound sense in what he says. But I take exception to his statement that the Republican party is allied with the trusts to a greater extent than our opponents. If the Democrats can decay trusts to any greater extent than the Republicans, then it is because they are more conversant with the dictum."

The Republicans will make the issue next fall. They will not allow Mr. Bryan to make it. I have been figuring on the cost of the war in the Philippines. One month of idleness by the factories of the United States with the loss of a billion of work to the employees would amount to more than the entire cost of suppressing the rebels in the Philippines."

NO ENGLISH ALLIANCE.

EMPHATIC AND FINAL STATEMENT FROM SECRETARY OF STATE HAY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

COJUMUS (O.) Sept. 12.—In a letter to Chairman Dick of the Republican State Executive Commission, Hon. John Hay, Secretary of State, makes this emphatic statement regarding the alleged secret alliance between England and the United States:

"There is no alliance with England, nor with any power under heaven, except those known and published to the world, for the creation of a mere international friendship for the purpose of advancing commerce. No other treaty than those existing now has been suggested from the other side; none is in contemplation."

"The war entered into the minds of the President nor any of the government to forsake, under any inducement, the wise precept and example of the fathers, which forbade entangling alliances with European powers."

CONFERENCE CALLED BY CIVIC FEDERATION OF CHICAGO MEETS TODAY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock the conference called by the Civic Federation of Chicago to discuss the question of trusts and combinations, their cause and effect, and all their various phases, will be called to order in Central Music Hall by Franklin H. Head, president of the Civic Federation.

It is expected that when that meeting is called, nearly four hundred delegates will be in attendance from all parts of the country. The Texas delegation, headed by Atty.-Gen. Smith, the Mississippi delegation and the Tennessee delegation, the latter headed by Congressman C. E. Snodgrass, were among the arrivals during the day. Col. W. J. Bryan is expected in Chicago Thursday.

The formalities attendant upon the opening of the conference, no attempt at a programme has been made, and none will be attempted, the work in that respect being left to the conference itself.

President Head of the Civic Federation will open with a welcoming address, and Gov. Tanner will extend greeting in behalf of the State. Acting Mayor Walker of Chicago will welcome the delegates in behalf of the city. From the opinions already expressed by delegations from the South and West, it is evident that all the delegates from the South and West will come opposed to the principle of trusts and combinations, while the views of eastern delegates are expected to modify their conclusions of the conference, if any recommendations are decided upon.

This is his reply:

"I was naturalized in 1855 or 1856. This made me an American citizen. I being a minor. My naturalization was unnecessary, as, but as a matter of precaution, I also took out naturalization papers in New York city years ago. I cannot give you the exact dates. The papers are in my private safe in New York."

[Signed.] "ANDREW CARNEGIE."

[Carroll] "I do not know that I had any intention of sitting in Parliament, asserting that he was an American; did not intend to cast off his allegiance, and would only think of entering public life at Washington, where he might combat the attacks upon true Americanism in the Philippine policy of the administration."

A MELANCHOLY TALE.

Officer Ritch's Experience in Growing Watermelons.

Men do not gather grapes of thorns nor figs of thistles. Neither do they pluck nice ripe watermelons off pumpkins vines.

Police Officer Joe Ritch, Georgian bred and born, considered himself an expert on the raising and eating of watermelons prior to last Sunday, but in the light of recent experience he has come to the conclusion that he does not know what he is talking about.

Ritch has a little hacienda in the southern part of the city where he plants some melons and watermelon seeds last spring. He tends the garden with tender care and they fruited heavily. Police Judge Morgan, who lives near Ritch's ranch, took a deep interest in the growing crop, to such a degree, in fact, that he made inquiries to him in the presence of the court that it would not be safe for any one to invade his melon patch with burglarious intent.

Ritch is a native of Ireland, and he wanted to take his family to the beach for ten days, but was afraid to leave his melons alone for that length of time.

Police Judge Morgan, who lives near Ritch's ranch, took a deep interest in the growing crop, to such a degree, in fact, that he made inquiries to him in the presence of the court that it would not be safe for any one to invade his melon patch with burglarious intent.

Ritch was away enjoying himself, which he especially enjoyed to keep an eye on his melons.

Whether owing to White's vigilance or merely discovery of the kind of crop Ritch was raising, is not known, but it is a fact that the jurist made no attempt to molest the melons during his absence.

When Ritch returned from his vacation last week he was rejoiced to find his fruit all intact. He complimented White on his vigilance, and invited him to a friendly conference.

Ritch let them hang on the vines till last Sunday, when he called White to his house and told him he had decided to eat one of those melons whether it was ripe or not.

The largest melon in the patch was singled out, and the Georgian watermelon expert proceeded to carve it. Great was his surprise when he bit into it and found it was a watermelon at all, but a citron which is good food for cows, but palls the human palate. All the rest of the melons in the patch commenced.

Thrashing began and ended during week. Straw and barley round in fields probably damaged, a great deal by rain Saturday, which did more or less injury to uncovered hay. Early peach all dried; late peach, though where irrigated, will still bear. Oranges in fair condition. Riverside—Citrus fruits are looking remarkably well, although small in size compared with those same last year. San Jacinto—Good weather for fruit drying. BEDLOE AND COOLIES.

THE CONSUL SAID TO HAVE SOLD CERTIFICATES.

Consul-General Goodnow's Report Contains Charges of the Gravest Character Against the Former Representative at Canton.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The World's Washington special says that in spite of strenuous denials, it is true that Mr. Goodnow, United States Consul-General to China, has officially made charges of the gravest character against Edward Bedloe, Consul at Canton. Bedloe's return to this country is to meet these charges. Every effort will be made to suppress the fact that Consul-General Goodnow's report, which the State Department refuses to give out, contains the charges that Bedloe has been trafficking with Chinese exporters of coolie laborers to America.

It is alleged that Bedloe has been issuing, for a consideration, certificates to coolie laborers as students, thus enabling them to enter the country. Some of the laborers, who landed on our Pacific Coast armed with these certificates, were so suspicious-looking that customs officers examined them and found on their shoulders callous places which are the unmistakable distinguishing marks of the coolie. It is alleged that Consul Bedloe, under his agreement with dealers in coolies, had to refund the price paid to him for the certificates of each coolie so turned back. It is said that the price paid for fraudulent certificates was about $100 a head.

In addition to these charges, Consul-General Goodnow has given some facts as to Consul Bedloe's personal conduct which has been, according to evidence, flagrant and indecent.

FOWLER PLEADED GUILTY.

The Man Who Stole from Uncle Col. Has Asked for Leniency.

Harry Fowler, the aged petty larcenist, who was arrested by Junk Dealer Fisher last Saturday after a long chase and an exciting struggle, upon the former offering to sell to the latter a lot of copper pipe which had been stolen from River station, was before Justice Austin yesterday to be judged according to his acts.

When the complaint was read to him, charging him with stealing the pipe, Fowler promptly pleaded guilty. He confided to the court that he really didn't steal the metal at all; that the larceny was committed by his wicked partner, who had got him to do it on the street with the swindler in his possession; but he would plead guilty, nevertheless, and throw himself upon the mercy of the court, in order to get out of the scrape as easily as possible. He knew he was a bad man, and was anxious to eschew their companionship at once if the court would only give him a chance. In fact, he really wasn't acquainted with the swindler, and had gotten him to trade, nor did he know the pipe had been stolen. He merely met the man on the street, who asked him to help carry the metal to a junk shop. After some cross-examinations, however, he admitted that he had known the man in San Francisco. The accomplice of Fowler made his escape when the latter was arrested, so he felt reasonably safe from contradiction.

Fowler also said that when he arrived in Los Angeles some time ago he had a large sum of money, which had been paid to him by the government for back pay, but had spent it all. He now receives, he says, a pension of $3 a month, on condition of his living honestly, but occasionally he has to squeeze both ends and the middle in order to pull through. He was quite sure that he had led a blameless life, but an old bad case of his had come up, he wanted to take his punishment as quickly as possible and have it over. He therefore asked the court to pass sentence upon him at once, but Justice Austin wanted to investigate his antecedents, and said that he is an old offender, sentence was postponed until 10 o'clock this morning.

Crowley has indirectly brought suit against Mrs. Francis Broome for $2700 for attorney fees in her recent trial in which she was found guilty of interfering with and resisting an officer in the discharge of his duties. The case caused much comment because of the prominence of Mrs. Broome, and the possibility at the time that the arrest might cause international trouble. The title of the present suit is Wilford E. Farrel vs. Francis Broome, Crowley having assigned his claim to Farrel. His claim is $250 for attorney fees during the Broome trial, and which she requested him to expend. POLICE COURT NOTES.

Retributive Justice Meted Out to Various Offenders.

Charles Haigh and his wife Letitia, who were convicted before Justice Austin on Monday of disturbing the peace of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Stott last Saturday evening, came up for sentence yesterday. A friend of the defendants made an appeal for leniency in their behalf, stating that they were unable to pay fines, and that they were desirous of going to the ranch of a relative in the country. Justice Austin said he considered the offense an aggravated one, and intimated that it would have been for the defense if they had gone to the country a few days earlier. He imposed a fine of $20 each, and a relative of Mrs. Haigh liquidated in her behalf.

Mr. Haigh went out in charge of an officer and endeavored to lay the amount of his fine, but was unsuccessful and was returned to jail to serve his sentence at the rate of $1 per day.

TO PATRIOTIC ANGELINOS.

The only complete command which went out to the war from Los Angeles—Battery D of the California Heavy Artillery—is due to return home within a few days, and, as has been stated repeatedly to the people of this city, it is desired to give these soldiers a welcome becoming to those who offer themselves to their country. To this end the War Board of Los Angeles, through the generous kindness of the theatrical fraternity now playing in the city and that of the local theatrical managers, has arranged a mammoth programme for presentation at the Orpheum Theater on Friday next, the entire proceeds of the performance to go to the benefit of the fund for the reception of our returning soldiers. Through THE TIMES the War Board appeals to the generous and loyal citizens of Los Angeles to make the forthcoming benefit such a gigantic success as shall insure a reception worthy our brave men at arms and the cause for which they have been serving their country in the far distant island of Luzon.

The features to be presented at the benefit performance on Friday afternoon embrace the peerless tragedienne, Helena Modjeska, and her company, which is now playing an engagement at the Los Angeles Theater; the Frawley Company from the Burbank; all the performers on the regular bill at the Orpheum; the great songstress, Mme. Geneva Johnstone-Bishop, and a great host of other volunteers for the good cause—a host that includes the major portion of the dramatic and musical talent of the Angel City. All these artists contribute their time and talents to this praiseworthy enterprise wholly without other recompense than that sense of satisfaction which comes from doing a kindly deed, and therefore the least that the good people of Los Angeles can do is to pack the house on Friday from footlights to gallery, particularly considering the great bill which is offered to an amusement-loving people on that occasion. THE TIMES makes an especial appeal to the people in society to take up the cause of this soldiers' benefit and make it "the event of the season," for certainly society can do no more splendid thing than to show its appreciation of valor and self-sacrifice.

These gallant young fellows of ours have braved the dangers of the tropics by flood and field; they went out to fight their country's battles "For you and me, good friend, for you and me," and it behoves us to insure to them such a welcome as becomes "the man behind the gun" who returns from the firing line in a far land. San Francisco did nobly in welcoming her men and ours when they sailed through the Golden Gate on a memorable August day, and the second city in the commonwealth must not be second in crowning these valorous lads with honors.

Gen. Lawton denounces as false the reported newspaper interview in which he is made to criticize the conduct of the Philippine campaign, and he denies in advance all future interviews of the kind. This was to have been expected. Gen. Lawton is too good a soldier to be guilty of so gross a breach of military discipline as would be involved in the action attributed to him.

History repeats itself. Democratic platforms are declaring the war a failure, this year, very much as they did in 1884. But the war wasn't a failure in 1884, and it isn't a failure in 1892.

Aguinaldo is still trying to secure recognition. So is Ed. Atkinson.

THE INFAMOUS VERDICT AT RENNES.

The effects of the second trial of Capt. Dreyfus, with its accompanying verdict of guilty, are likely to be far more serious and widespread than was anticipated by the judges who pronounced the verdict. It is no wonder that public opinion in Paris is sobered by reading the comments of the world at large upon the verdict, for these comments are almost uniformly unfavorable, and in many cases are severely condemnatory of the judges, of the entire proceedings, and of the public sentiment in France which tolerates a wrong so monstrous.

One of the serious effects of the verdict, if it is permitted to stand, will be an immense falling off in the receipts of the proposed international exposition to be held in Paris next year. Already there are threats from all over the civilized world of passing the exposition by on the other side. Orders for the withdrawal of many private exhibits have been given thus early, and organized movements are on foot, throughout Europe and the United States, for the withdrawal or cancellation of public and private exhibits in untold quantities. No government has as yet taken action looking to the withdrawal of its exhibit, but such radical action is hinted at, and even if not taken, the results of a general withdrawal of private exhibits will be almost the same in their final effect upon the exposition, and will serve to endanger its success very seriously, if not to render success practically impossible. Such a significant condemnation would be no more than France as a nation deserves for her great sin.

Among the sections of the United States that are interested in national irrigation, none is more deeply so than Arizona, the future development of which great Territory depends largely on the development of water to irrigate its vast stretches of plains and valleys, now arid, but capable of producing every crop of the semi-tropical and temperate zones. It is, therefore, not surprising to find that the people of Arizona are taking a keen interest in the coming congress.

As is generally known, the Governor of Arizona is—unfortunately—an advocate of the cession of the arid lands to the States and Territories in which they are located. Consequently, as might be expected, Mr. Murphy has selected men as delegates to the congress who favor that plan, which THE TIMES, and a great majority of those who have devoted consideration to the question, believe would be a grave mistake. In addition, each canal or ditch company has the privilege of making selection of one delegate, and these also have generally selected men who are in favor of private ownership.

The enterprising farmers of Arizona have, however, not been idle, while several of the cities and towns have selected men as delegates who have the interests of the people at heart. The Mayor of Phoenix has chosen W. T. Smith, also ex-Gov. McCord, who has contributed several articles on national irrigation to THE TIMES. It may be depended upon that he will make a strong fight for national irrigation in the congress.

An important addition to the ranks of those who champion the cause of national irrigation has come, in the person of E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fé system, who has written a letter to Mr. McCord, which is published in the Phoenix Enterprise. In this letter Mr. Ripley congratulates Mr. McCord on a communication published by that gentleman in THE TIMES of June last, and adds:

"Permit me to congratulate you on the soundness of your position on the question with which you express yourself in my mind that it is the duty of the national government to take charge of and conserve the water supply: in no other way can it be done efficiently and on a comprehensive scale; and no other way can the vast areas of arid land owned by the government itself be made of value, so that aside from any benefit which may result to the Territory, and aside from the provision of an immense amount of water for irrigation purposes, the enterprise should be a paying one from a purely business standpoint, and the enhancement of values of the government land should more than pay the cost.

You are certainly on the right track, and government money spent in this way will do more good and benefit more people than all that has been appropriated in the river and harbor bills for the last ten years."

The sentiment in favor of national irrigation is growing apace and will, doubtless, be crystallized at the coming irrigation congress, the deliberations of which have an important bearing upon action by the other and greater Congress which meets in Washington.

The New York Tribune notes that the Maine Lodge of Waterville, Me., the Maine Central Railroad's oldest conductor, has resigned after fifty years. He is 76 years old. He was first employed with the Androscoggin and Kennebec Company, having run the first train into Waterville in January, 1849. His position with that company was kept until the road finally passed into the hands of the Maine Central. In the period of fifty years Mr. Bodge was never in an accident, and had never lost a day's work from any kind of disability. It would appear, from Mr. Bodge's experience, that railroading on the Maine Central is safer than staying quietly at home.

Advices from Kobe, Japan, are to the effect that there are good prospects of saving the Morgan City, the transport which was wrecked off the Japanese coast recently. If the Morgan City is the "hoodoo" it is represented to be it is doubtful if it is worth while to save her.

A Frenchman claims that brains can be made by electricity. It may be even so, but the art has not made much progress in France of late.

haps, bring to their senses, in some degree, the men who are immediately responsible for having persecuted the unhappy Dreyfus. The class of men in France who have aided, abetted, and upheld that outrageous persecution of a man whom all the world believes to be innocent, are alike deserving of stern rebuke.

Friday's benefit must be made an overwhelming success, but it cannot be so without the enthusiastic cooperation of those of our people who love their country and who appreciate the valor of our soldiery. It is to this class alone that THE TIMES appeals upon this occasion. We confidently hope that this appeal is not being made in vain.

It is stated that in France there is one saloon for every eighty-five inhabitants. If the statement be true it explains something which have heretofore seemed a trifle mystic. What proportion the masons de joie in Paris bear to the whole number of residences is not stated in the latest French statistics.

Strange to relate, Oakland has accepted the offer of Andrew Carnegie to donate $50,000 for a public library building in that city. It has been generally believed that Oakland would hurl back the offer with scorn and defiance, and request Mr. Carnegie to go to—well, to some town that is hard up.

Altgold announces that the Ohio Democratic platform suits him. This ought to be enough to knock out the Ohio Democratic platform.

EXPANSION.

When we were babies the nursery was all the world that we could see. Strange sounds from regions far away. We heard, but never thought to stray. And scarce a dozen folks were there. In Babylon, to meet our state.

When we were boys the fields around our happy home were open ground. Where expeditions oft were made. And battle fought, and foes betrayed. And yet, shall any one deride That grand domain—the school boy's pride?

But now, in manhood, far we roam In distant lands to build our home. The great round earth we girt with steel;

O'er oceans sail; o'er mountains wheel; And even search in space afar,

Perchance to find some brighter star.

Yet no one bids us curb our thought,

Or loose again some science caught.

The narrow limits of our youth Have now expanded, till, forsooth,

We grasp in thought the universe,

And who shall say we are the worse?

So with the nation. Years long past

A strip of land seemed boundless—vast;

The Alleghenies were "out West;"

The Mississippi was, at best,

A visionary stream, scarce known,

Where dreamer's dreams had seldom flown.

But steadily the nation grew;

Each fairy tale became most true;

As though by force of destiny Its limits stretched from sea to sea.

Expansion past has been no crime,

Why, then, its curse this latter time?

Expansion, or regression, will

The law of governments fulfill.

No nation can its prestige hold,

Except by progress, quick and bold.

Expansion, or regression, then,

Is what confronts us, brethren!

THE LAST OF EARTH.

Lieut.-Col. L. S. Butler Laid to Rest With Honors.

The funeral of Lieut.-Col. L. S. Butler was held yesterday afternoon at his late residence, No. 233 North Hope street, and was very largely attended by the members of the numerous organizations and friends of the deceased, who was prominently identified, as well as numerous personal friends. The remains repose in the parlor of the residence upon the casket enclosing which rested the sword of deceased and the flag of the old Frank Bartlett Post, G. A. R., of which Col. Butler was a member, while elaborate floral sprays flanked either side, prominent among which was a pillow American flag from the California National Guard, a star and crescent surmounted by a dove from Columbia Rebekah Lodge No. 194, a striped wavy wreath from the Loyal Legion, and numerous others from prominent ladies of the city will sell the badges on the street, and quite a sum will thus be realized.

The next badge will be placed on sale at number 20 of the street yesterday, and today the Boston Dry Goods Store, N. B. Blackstone's, H. Jevins' and J. R. Newberry's will be added to the list of places where these attractive souvenirs can be obtained.

The ladies of the Red Cross and a number of other prominent ladies of the city will sell the badges on the street, and quite a sum will thus be realized.

COMMERCIAL.

BUSINESS IN THIS SECTION. R. G. Dun & Co.'s report of trade in Southern California in August, says:

"There are no especially new features in the trade situation of the country. Prices remain strong for staples, certain being generally higher.

For fall goods are very large and free. Activity in the leading industries show no signs of diminution.

Iron mills are working their utmost capacity to fill the largest demand ever made upon the iron industry of the country. While some iron workers have advanced until they are double what they were last year. The volume of solvent business is large, failures are few. August clearings are 24 per cent. larger than last year.

All varieties of beans are steadily held.

The beet-sugar factories are in operation. Crops were underestimated, and the runs will be longer than anticipated. In most cases the sugar percentage is running high.

The returns from peach and apricot crops are most satisfactory. Prune gathering and drying is on. Price is not generally made. Contracts for new crop in Central California are being made on a good basis for regular crops. Apricots are in demand, but business not large, holders and buyers being apart in values. The cure of peaches is small, but the stock fine. Buyers offer as high as 6% cents.

The return from plums is good. There is fair crop, and prices are 5 cents to 6 cents for hard-shells, up to 13 cents for Languedoc.

"Walnut-picking will be in swing by the middle of September. A fair crop is estimated as superior quality.

Prices are not yet set.

"It is many a year since the grape grower has received so good returns on wine grapes bringing $14 a ton at point of delivery. Crop of raisins for '98 is light, and grades are not open high. Output is estimated at 2500 tons.

Scarcely any old stock in the State. Prices for new crop have not been made.

"The coming citrus-fruit crop is looking well. With a good rainfall a very large crop will be marketed. Eastern demand for lemons is good; price steady at $3.50 per box.

"The oil industry continues to claim much attention. The noteworthy phase of the industry in the State for August has been the formation of a large number of incorporated companies with large capital for development of petroleum. Eastern crude oil is quoted $1.40 per barrel, the highest point this year.

"Locally, wholesale and retail reports are fair. The market is considerably constricted by a demand considerably ahead of last year, and retail business is showing every prospect of a large fall and winter trade.

"Failures for August were fourteen, with liabilities $50,000; assets, $30,000.

PASADENA.

MOVEMENT IN BEHALF OF MONEY LESS THROOP STUDENTS.

Important Meeting of Trustees of the Institute—Creditors of Prof. Lowe Attack His Wife's Museum. City Council Postpones Orange Grove Trolley.

PASADENA, Sept. 12.—[Regular Correspondence.] The board of trustees of Throop Polytechnic Institute held an important meeting this afternoon. Dr. J. H. McBride was unanimously elected to fill the unexpired term of F. C. Bolt, resigned. President Edwards reported that a great many applications were on file from young people who are very anxious to enter Throop, but who cannot pay the tuition fees, although these were recently reduced to $75 a year. He said all the available scholarships had been distributed, and the janitor work of both halls divided up so as to afford help to the largest possible number. Under these circumstances it was resolved to appoint a committee of three, with power to add to their number, for the purpose of soliciting subscriptions toward a fund which will be used to meet in part the tuition of worthy applicants.

The school starts this year free from debt, and in order to keep it so the board feels that for every student there shall be forthcoming in one way or another a full sum of $100. Dr. McBride, Esq., is chairman of the Soliciting Committee, and those who contribute will have no doubt that the funds will be well spent. All indications point to a large increase in the number of pupils during the coming year, and the earnest desire is that none be turned away for lack of means.

In the Sloyd grammar department, Miss Bunnelle has given the assistance of Miss Elizabeth Graham, who comes from the State Normal public school. Prof. Lucien R. Gilmore has returned from a year's leave of absence spent in special work in the University of Chicago, and will use the remaining time in the preparation of the plans for the erection of a new twenty horse power electric motor, which will supply the place of steam as the motive power for Polytechnic Hall.

There is every reason to believe that this favorite little California situation is entering upon an era of prosperity such as it has never known, both in an educational and financial sense. It is hoped that citizens will be moved to meet for the poor who have no means, and that the benevolent scheme of creating an endowment of $100,000, will be pressed forward, the nest egg having been already assured.

LOWE CURION ATTACHED.

The Lowe collection of curios was placed under attachment this afternoon by some of Prof. Lowe's creditors, and J. W. Eystone is now in charge as keeper. There undoubtedly will be a legal contest as to the ownership of the collection, which was made by Mrs. Lowe during her years at it. It is one of the most notable private museums in America, valued at many thousand dollars, some experts say as much as $30,000. An arrangement had been made to remove the museum to Echo Park, and place it on exhibition there, when a attachment was made by a deputy from Los Angeles. The collection is stored in the Pasadena opera house.

DARKTOWN CASE.

A darktown real estate deal, in which a house was sold for $15, was brought to the attention of a jury of six men in the Recorder's Court today, crookedness being charged against Roland McCoy, the real estate agent. All the parties agreed that he had made a complaint of malpractice against McCoy, alleging that the latter falsely claimed to represent the owner of the building. Lattimer said he paid McCoy $7.50 down, and the latter agreed to take his balance in firewood; but when he went to make payment he found the house was claimed by David Long, and so he couldn't "possess." At the trial today, Long didn't appear, but Mrs. John McLaughlin did, and testified that she owned the building, and that she had given it to her friend, McCoy, to arrange the sale. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty and McCoy was freed again. The feud between him and the woman's husband, however, has not been dismissed.

Lattimer, who keeps a little wood yard, has his own counsel. The first witness he intruded upon was a colored girl, whom he presented as his "book-keeper." Mr. Lattimer succeeded very well in his introductory question, but got tangled up more or less as he went on with the sponge. The star of the trial was Taylor Crawford, who declared he didn't know anything about the affair—"I reckon, your honnab, de case hasn't scratched me none"—and then told more about it than anybody else. "Dey's got de house; dey's got my money, and I've got nuthin' was," said Lattimer's profitless peroration in his own behalf.

AT CITY HALL.

The applications of the electric railroad for additional franchises fared as was predicted, at the City Council meeting this morning. The committee reported in favor of the proposed extension of North Los Robles avenue from Villa Street to the north city limits and from the Terminal to our West Colorado to within 100 feet of Orange Grove avenue, but with reference to the trolley on Orange Grove, it was deferred "until such time as the owners of property fronting on the avenue shall have an opportunity to express their views." The report was unanimously adopted, and the ordinances for the sale of the two franchises favored, were voted through. A remonstrance of the property-holders representing 636 feet of frontage on South Orange Grove, protesting against granting a franchise for a street-car track on that avenue, was presented. That probably will have its own way about it, while the railroad company will extend in the northern quarter of the town.

The Senatorial problem was solved after a long season of suspense. S. Carr being appointed janitor of the City Hall at a salary of $15 a month. "The man is a good fellow who assumes the labor and responsibility of campaigns, who gives their energies and efforts to the Party. The men who should receive the reward of victory," declared Mr. Carr in his speech for the "yes" side. The Council decided that such a man ought to be a good sweeper and duster, and voted him into the honors, emoluments and "winnings" of victory, $3 to 1. The colored contingent will breathe easier—or harder, as it is said.

M. D. Painter made application for permission to connect Hotel Pintoresca in North Pasadena with the city sewer, agreeing to pay a reasonable sum for the privilege. The matter was referred to the Board of Health. The petition requesting the passage of a city ordinance prohibiting spitting on any sidewalk or in any public conveyance, was read and referred. Trustee Hoag called for the enforcement of the ordinance prohibiting the throwing of rubbish into any street or aisle. The same Trustee called attention to a bill of $5 for the employment of substitutes in the fire department, while the regular employees were absent on their vacations. The City Attorney was requested to look up the law as pertaining to the case. The contract for grading, curbing and guttering Hermimer street, between Madison and Molino avenues, was let to Charles Mushrush at 96 cents a foot.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

The horse which was stolen from Walter Wallace of Alameda while hitched to a cart in Pasadena last October two or three months ago, has not been recovered, but the wagon and harness were found a few days ago, among some willows below the San Gabriel Mission. The wheels of the stolen buggy had been replaced.

Word has arrived here today that the State Supreme Court has decided the case between D. D. Kellogg of this city and ex-Sheriff John Burr, in favor of Kellogg, who thus wins $500.

The suit grew out of the attachment of a note of $400 & Kent to Kellogg by Los Angeles creditors.

The contract for two carloads of hardware for the cycloway was let to Harper & Reynolds of Los Angeles.

The birthday picnic of the veteran, James Townsend, will take place from 10 to 2 Wednesday, on Raymond Hill.

The club of amateur golfers in the Bronx against the L. A. Breast of Santa Anita, probably will be dropped.

Ferry Gavin struck water today in his East Colorado-street well, at a depth of 100 feet.

Henry Newby and wife, and W. L. Van Nys and wife, returned today from San Diego.

A charming display of the latest fall dress novelties is made at Jones & Hunt's.

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND.

New Boat Christened—Navigation Obscured by Fish.

AVALON, Sept. 12.—[Regular Correspondence.] The new boat built on the island and recently launched has been christened the Avalon. Yesterday her builder announced that he was going to take her over to San Pedro to have her measured and registered, instead of going toward San Pedro, however, the last seen of her she was off the lower end of the island, and making toward San Diego. Mr. Mathewson has succeeded in throwing a great air mystery about the new boat.

NEW RECEIVER APPOINTED.

The final report of C. W. Pauli, late receiver of the Golden Cross Mining Company came up for consideration before Judge Torrance in the Superior Court yesterday afternoon. The court found that the receiver had fulfilled the duty of his office and was then entitled to a salary previously agreed upon. An allowance of $300 for attorney's fees was also made. There is now due Receiver Pauli $12,415.32 with $1500 attorney's fees, and the court ordered that $3000 of this be paid to him, and the remainder to the receiver.

The boat was started by a sudden jar of the machinery. Thinking he had struck a sunken log or bit of wreckage, he looked back and saw blood on the water. He put about, and an investigation showed he had run into a big sunfish, and the propeller had cut a huge piece out of the animal's anatomy. The fish was killed. A similar accident happened to the Catalina at a time ago, near the Isthmus, when a man was big log of yellowtail and one of them got mixed up with the propeller in such a way that it stopped the boat. The fish was so entangled with the propeller blades that it had to be cleared away before the machinery could be started again.

SUITS AGAINST WICKS.

Actions Brought in Quiet Title and Recovery on a Note.

S. T. Northcutt and C. G. Kellogg, administrator of the estate of W. W. Northcutt, deceased, began suit yesterday against M. L. Wicks and a score of other co-defendants asking that an assignment of property made in October, 1892, be adjudged fraudulent and of no effect, and that plaintiffs' title to the property in dispute be forever quieted. It is alleged that Wicks in 1891 executed a promissory note for a large sum of money to S. D. Northcutt, and that about a year afterward he assigned it to him. The note, it is said, is still outstanding.

M. D. Painter made application for permission to connect Hotel Pintoresca in North Pasadena with the city sewer, agreeing to pay a reasonable sum for the privilege. The matter was referred to the Board of Health.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY.

BIDS FOR JETTY CONTRACTS SOON TO BE OPENED.

Appropriation Insufficient to Complete the Work—New Receiver Appointed for the Golden Cross Mining Company—Novel Wedding Anniversary.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 12.—[Regular Correspondence.] Bids for the construction of an extension to the government jetty at the entrance of the harbor will be opened in Los Angeles September 28 by Capt. J. J. Meyler, who arrived in San Diego last night. Only $67,000 is available at present for the work, and while there remain 3500 feet of the jetty yet to be built, this sum will only allow the completion of a thousand feet. The small amounts apportioned for this work each year almost double the total cost of the work, for, as in the present instance, much of the construction work has to be done out of view. Mrs. Thompson, who has installed so many pumping plants in this locality this season, has just finished putting in two large plants at Redland.

She obtained possession of the ways of the business world and was much in need of friendly counsel when Davis came to her assistance. He aided her to straighten out her property interests and thought the incident was closed. Mrs. Thompson drifted out of view, but she was supposed to be dead. Mrs. Thompson, however, was very much alive and was at the Kildare-ide country. She obtained possession of two promising claims, on one of which she has twelve men employed.

The claims are located on the Bonanza Gulch, a few miles from Dawson City. Mrs. Thompson will be in charge of the work.

A slight blaze in William Herman's house on Main street, occurring an alarm of fire this morning. The damage was slight.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.

FROM SLEEP TO DEATH.

CHICAGO ATTORNEY RECEIVES A SILENT SUMMONS.J. T. Kretzinger Found Dead in Bed at the Hollenbeck Hotel—Was Here to Look After Mining Interests—Inquest Today.

Alone and unattended, J. T. Kretzinger died in the Hollenbeck Hotel some time Monday night. The deceased was a prominent corporation attorney of Chicago, and came to Los Angeles recently to look after mining interests held in this state.

In company with Capt. W. T. Beatty, Mr. Kretzinger visited Santa Monica Monday. After spending the entire day at the beach, they returned to Los Angeles and went to the hotel, having engaged adjoining rooms. Before retiring the dead man appeared to be enjoying excellent health, and showed no symptoms of his approaching death.

During the night, Mr. Kretzinger is said to have eaten some fruit which may have helped to bring on indigestion. This probably affected the heart action, and brought about his death.

Capt. Beatty tried to awaken his friend about 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning, but failing to arouse him called in Dr. G. W. Lasher. The physician examined the sleeper and pronounced him dead, saying that he was probably due to fatty degeneration of the heart. About three years ago Kretzinger was treated in Chicago for liver trouble by Dr. Norman Bridge of Pasadena, and since that time has been under medical treatment.

The dead man was a partner in the law firm of Kretzinger, Gallagher & Rooley, occupying offices in the Monadnock Building, Chicago. He also owned considerable mining property in this state and was a member of the bar.

The remains were taken to Howey's embalming parlor, where an inquest will be held this morning at 9:30 o'clock. The body will be embalmed and returned to Chicago for interment.
